SPECIAL SECURITY POLICY AND CLEARANCE CENTER

STATEMENT OF FUNCTIONS

In accord with agreement between the Secretary of Defense and the Director of Central Intelligence, the Director of Security, CIA has established a "Special Security Policy and Clearance Center" that will be responsible for establishing security policy for major programs conducted by CIA and other agencies participating in the National Reconnaissance Program. This will include the establishment of a uniform system of security controls and other provisions for maximum protection to intelligence sources and methods to be employed within the National Reconnaissance Program structure on an intelligence community wide basis. As an integral part of its function the Center will concern itself with the security aspects of industrial development and procurement of intelligence collecting systems, the operational utilization and/or deployment of such systems and the dissemination of collected intelligence products. In addition, the Center will conduct necessary inspections on a continual periodic basis to determine compliance with established security policies.

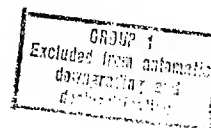

As a separate function, the Center will also maintain master indices of all persons approved for access to individual NRP projects and resultant intelligence products and will process clearance actions, conduct security briefings and debriefings within CIA and portions of the intelligence community and will supervise the establishment of and oversee the control centers for the entire community under three (3) separate control programs, i. e. operational access, product access and Special Intelligence.
